

Bodegas Ramirez De La Piscina
Gran Reserva 2017

JEB DUNNUCK

92pts

"From the dreaded frost year that nonetheless produced great quality where it could, higher-elevation vineyards fared better, yet even still, very little of the 2017 Gran Reserva was produced. Employing the same winemaking process as its Reserva, it spent longer in oak (24 months) and more time in bottle (36 months). The aging is tangible in soft, melty tannins and a spiced, mature fruit profile of currant and dried cherry. Structured, it will age well another 10-15 years."
