El Puntido 2017

JEB DUNNUCK

94pts

"The 2017 El Puntido has a rocking nose of blackcurrants, plums, chocolate, lead pencil, and tobacco. It has plenty of oak showing, but it's integrated and certainly works well. It's going to marginally integrate with bottle age as well. Medium to full-bodied on the palate, it has ample fruit, a juicy, lively spine of acidity, and a great finish. This pleasure-bent, sexy Rioja will benefit from 2-3 years of bottle age (it's delicious even today) and should evolve nicely for at least a decade, probably longer."
