

Bodegas Alvear
2023 Pedro Ximénez Solera 1910

JEB DUNNUCK

"Velvety rich, long, and looking like balsamic in the bottle, the NV Pedro Ximénez Solera 1910 has 40 years of average solera and criadera aging and tastes of pure vanilla bean and crème caramel. It's an intriguing bottling that is meant for sipping over long conversation, viscous, beautiful, and decadent across its full-bodied palate. At 15% ABV and 520 grams per liter, and only 1,600 cases, it's been worth the wait and should continue to offer decadence over a decade or so."
